

Responding Locally to Rising Hate and Conflict

Oct. 15, 2020 at 1 PM PT | 4 PM ET

Presented by: Not In Our Town and Interfaith Conference of Greater Milwaukee

The threat of hate and political violence has reached an urgent new level. Hate groups, white supremacists, and anti-government extremists present a clear danger to our country. Violent white supremacy is the most persistent and lethal domestic threat, according to a report released by the Department of Homeland Security in October 2020.

Evidence of the spiraling threat became clear as a plot to kidnap Michigan Governor Gretchen Whitmer, start a civil war, and detonate explosives was uncovered and thwarted by federal law enforcement.

How can we be proactive in our local communities in the face of escalating conflict?

Not In Our Town, Over Zero, the Divided Community Project, Interfaith Conference of Greater Milwaukee, and other organizations will present action tools and communications strategies for building resiliency in communities facing hate and division.

Co-Hosts and Moderators:

Pardeep Kaleka

Interfaith Conference of Greater Milwaukee, Executive Director

Grande Lum

Menlo College
Vice President and former Director of the US Community Relations Service

Patrice O'Neill

Not In Our Town
CEO/Executive Producer

Thomas Battles

Lead Mediator
Bridge Initiative
Divided Community Project
Columbus, OH

Rachel Brown

Founder & Executive Director
Over Zero
Washington, DC

Samantha Owens

Regional Director, U.S.
Over Zero
Washington, DC

Carl Smallwood

Co-Director
Divided Community Project
Columbus, OH

Learn more & register now:

niot.org/conversations

Oct. 15, 2020 at 1pm PDT | 2pm MDT | 3pm CDT | 4pm EDT

Sponsored by:

O
V
E
R
Z
E
R
O

INTERFAITH CONFERENCE
OF GREATER MILWAUKEE

Divided Community Project

