Hazed and Confused: The University of Redlands Says, "Not On Our Campus"

HAZED AND CONFUSED

NOT ON OUR CAMPUS HAZING AWARENESS WEEK

The Alpha Theta Phi sorority at the University of Redlands is breaking new ground. In the fall, the students held a Not On Our Campus week to bring awareness to hazing, pledging to stop the hurtful-and sometimes fatal-practice on university campuses.

Earlier in the year, university and sorority alumna Lauri Massari stepped forward to conduct an anti-hazing training, as a service to the Office of Student Life. But she took it one step further, offering a $500 scholarship to conduct a Not On Our Campus week of activities, the first of its kind at the university. More...

Cyberbullying Campaigns: Using the Tools for Good

In the recent Not In Our School video, "Students Take on Cyberbullying," Watchung Hills Regional High School students confront the threat of cyberbullying--a rapidly growing phenomenon that is uniquely affecting an entire generation of technology-savvy middle and high school students across the nation.

In the video, we hear of students who have fallen victim to this increasingly alarming trend. Recent research conducted by the PEW Research Center Internet & American Life Project reported that 88 percent of students surveyed about cyberbullying have witnessed peers being mean or cruel online.

The good news is, some are using these popular platforms to speak out against bullying. More...
